

UPDATED: First 800 'Shapes' Distributed

Tue, Apr 05, 2010

The Shapes for Hamilton art project reached the distribution phase this weekend.

There were two distributions of the unique shapes created by artist Allan McCollum for every person living in the Town of Hamilton. Colgate Professor DeWitt Godfrey, who is overseeing the Shapes project, said 800 people received their shapes over the weekend.

Two more distributions are planned for this coming weekend. These distributions are planned for:

Saturday, April 10

Poolville Community Center, Poolville

10 am - 5 pm

Sunday, April 11

Palace Theater, Village of Hamilton

11 am - 5 pm

There was a steady stream of recipients of all ages at Hamilton Central School Saturday to receive their shapes, each signed by the artist.

Radio Free Hamilton will be at both distributions next weekend to add to our slide show.
